MORRISVILLE, N.Y.--Parents of children from 5 to 12 years old throughout Madison County will have a unique opportunity to learn how to raise responsible, cooperative children through a 6-week program offered free of charge through BRiDGES (the Madison County Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse, Inc.) and Madison County Cornell Cooperative Extension 4-H Youth Development.

Active Parenting Now offers tips and training on improving communication, using effective discipline, developing children's self-confidence and independence, handling problems and conflicts, and much more for parents of children between the ages of 5 and 12. Through a series of six two-hour workshops, parents can explore the world of effective parenting with activities, videos, and interactive lessons.

The program begins on Tuesday, March 10 and runs through April 14 each Tuesday night from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Cornell Cooperative Extension building at 100 Eaton Street, Morrisville.

The program is free, and dinner will be provided each week through the donations of local businesses.

Space is limited. For more information or to register for the program, contact BRiDGES at 315.697.3947 before March 1.
